Adult Day Services (ADS), also known as adult day care, is one option many caregivers are turning to for help. ADS are community-based programs providing a structured, safe environment for cognitively and/or functionally impaired adults (18+yrs). These impairments may be a result of a head injury, dementia, developmental disability, stroke, chronic illness, or frailty. ADS provides daily exercises and meaningful activities (e.g., crafts, games, gardening, cooking) carried out in a group setting that focuses on enhancing and improving functional abilities. Fun, laughter, and friendship are natural outcomes for program participants as they socialize and take part in activities. ADS provides a safe place so that caregivers can work, rest, and take care of other responsibilities. This program is funded through Medi-Cal or private pay.

The San Bernardino ADHCC operates for the purpose of fostering and maintaining the maximum possible state of health and well-being of physically and mentally challenged individuals. It provides an organized daily program of health, social, and therapeutic activities. These activities are provided based on an individual's plan of care carried out by/or under the supervision of professionals. Two teachers from the San Bernardino Adult School work with San Bernardino ADHCC.

We are in constant coordination with patients' caregivers, caseworkers, probation officers, medical doctors and psychiatrists and other service providers to better understand and serve our participants.

We invite speakers from other organizations like MADD and clinic for STD. OOA meetings are incorporated in the program.
